

Finding Your Place

Professional Development for Yonkers Public School Teachers

When: Saturday, October 16, 10am–3pm

Where: Hudson River Museum

Registration: To register, please email Bridget McCormick or scan the QR code above and fill out the registration form.

What: Tour HRM's current exhibitions Landscape Art & Virtual Travel and African American Art in the 20th Century, engage in creative workshops with Teaching Artists-in-Residence Jamel Robinson and Julia Santos Solomon, and get equipped with the knowledge and means to carry this experience into your classrooms by replicating the hands-on workshops with your students.

Finding Your Place is limited to 15 participants. Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Educators at all grade levels and from all content areas are welcome at this interdisciplinary event. Please visit hrm.org/visit for the most up-to-date safety protocols and requirements.

Why: We're here to support the integration of the arts into your classrooms and curricula! Following completion of this professional development session, each participant will have the opportunity to bring up to 30 students to the Museum at no expense, with transportation funding provided, for a self-guided experience. They will also receive curricular resources from HRM educators.
